

Introduction to

THE SUCCESS DISCOVERY PROCESS

for Sales
Discovering and Using Your Talents

An investment of just 60 minutes of your time with this process will bring you unlimited results.

If I Knew Then...

Have you ever said or done something you wish you hadn't?

- or -

Have you ever regretted the way you handled a situation?

What situation in your life comes to mind?

Who were the people involved?

Was it a personal or professional situation?

Looking back, how did you feel about the outcome?

The purpose of the Success Discovery Process is to help you minimize your regrets and maximize your success. An important element of the process is to help you acknowledge talents you know you have and discover talents you may not have known you had. In addition, this process will help you find new ways or words to use when talking about yourself to others. This process will also help you to relate more effectively with others. The better you understand yourself, the better you will be at getting what you want. In fact, what you don't know about yourself could keep you from getting what you want.

What you are about to experience is a process that will give you priceless insight into yourself. This insight will help you to know when and where to use your talents. Knowing this information will become one of your most valuable assets.

Throughout this process there will be many questions to ask yourself as well as memories that will come back to you. Take your time and do some soul searching. This is a time to reflect on what you are learning about yourself. How do you feel about what you are learning about yourself? Wouldn't you like to know more about the people in your life at work or at home? What can you lose? What can you gain?

What is the Success Discovery Process for Sales?

- The courage to use your talents to achieve personal and professional success.
- The acknowledgment of your strengths and acceptance of your weaknesses.
- The ability to adapt to different situations and people in various environments.

The Success discovery process will have you thinking if I knew then what I know now, I would have fewer regrets and more success. The process is quick, it's easy, and it starts with you. The first phase begins with Self Assessment.

You will need the following to begin:

Your Performance Development Review Report
A highlighter

Carefully read your entire report. Highlight the statements you feel may not be true. Next, follow the page-by-page instructions for the Success discovery Process.

SELF-HELP Orientation and Performance Development Process

To obtain the greatest benefit from the attached report:

1. Please read the development report slowly and carefully. There may be some statements that you feel are not completely accurate, or perhaps they were true at one time but you have since modified your behavior. This report categorizes you into one of 367 different behavioral types based on your responses to the assessment. Remember, we are using this report as a guide, not as a statement of absolutes.
2. Underline or highlight any statement in the report that you do not agree with. Be prepared to discuss these items with your manager or facilitator. Be open to guidance.
3. Attached please find a workbook called "The Success Discovery Process." Use this workbook as a guide to help understand and focus the development text in your report. After reviewing your approach to the job and your understanding of the job, fill out the "Action plan." Focus on the most important changes you think you should make that will increase your effectiveness on the job. Limit proposed changes to the three you feel are most important. Under each item, outline the steps you will take to achieve these goals.
4. Bring your highlighted assessment report and the completed "Success Discovery Process" workbook with you to the facilitation session (if one is scheduled) and be prepared to adjust or amend your "Action Plan" if necessary. If a facilitation session is not scheduled review the Success Discovery Process and focus on implementing the action plan. Ask your manager to review and approve your action plan.
5. Do not attempt to work on more than three items at this time. If you try to focus on too many things, your efforts will become fragmented and little will be accomplished. Commit to the plan, establish time frames for implementation and further review. This is not the time or place to discuss money, the company, or other people. The focus is on YOU! Don't let other issues detract from this opportunity to establish a positive dialog with your manager.
6. If you find there are more than three issues to be resolved, work on the top three and when you and your manager agree they are no longer an issue create a new Action Plan to address additional issues.
7. Maintain a positive approach toward self-development and use this opportunity to establish a lasting and positive focus toward self improvement. This will increase your overall effectiveness and job satisfaction.

Thanks for participating in the Performance Development program.

Summary

The Success Discovery Process for Sales is designed to help you achieve success . . . however you define it. Success for most people is defined in terms of specific goals such as: a better job, a promotion or improved relationships.

What goals would you like to achieve?

Now that you understand your strengths and weaknesses, you can do more of what helps you get what you want and stop doing what keeps you from getting what you want.

Think of no more than three goals you would like to achieve. The most important element in success is commitment.. If you are truly committed to achieving your goals, you will share them with people who are important to you.

List three goals you are committed to achieve:

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

Now lay out a timetable and plan to achieve these goals.

How committed are you?

Thank you for participating in the Sales Discovery Process.
